STOLE A $10,000 OPINION.

The Widow of a Famous General Who Needed Money to Dress Well.

Some years ago the widow of a famous Union general was intimate with the wife and daughters of a justice of the supreme court and was as familiar with their home as with her own, which was in the immediate neighborhood. She was also intimate with the family of a prominent and popular lobbyist, who was supposed to represent Jay Gould, C. P. Huntington and other men of large interests whenever anything concerned them in congress. All the parties are now dead, except the lady in the case, whom I will call Mrs. Smith. She was a handsome, ambitious and frivolous woman, whose husband committed suicide by drowning himself in his bathtub. She lived a gay life afterward, but managed to keep many of her old friends. Knowing her love of money and the fact that her income did not keep pace with her expenses, the lobbyist told her that he would give her $10,000 if she could get him a copy of the opinion which the justice was expected to deliver in the supreme court on the following Monday, involving the constitutionality of the Thurman Pacific railroad law. He told her that he knew the opinion was in manuscript and believed that the judge had it locked up in the desk in his library.

Sunday morning, as soon as she saw the justice and his family start for church, she went across the street, around Thomas circle, rang the bell and told the servant that she wanted to look at a book in the justice's library. As she was accustomed to go about the house almost daily they thought nothing of it, and she was allowed to remain undisturbed in the same room with the decision for nearly two hours. It is supposed that she had a set of false keys, for the justice said that the opinion was locked up in his desk and could not have been reached otherwise. But at any rate the lobbyist is known to have obtained the opinion in advance, and the woman was shortly after able to pay off some pressing obligations. An investigation disclosed the facts I have stated, and it seemed to be the only possible way the opinion could have been obtained. Of course the incident terminated relations between the two families, and when the story got out, about town Mrs. Smith found it more comfortable to rent her Washington residence and remove to New York.—Chicago Record.

DOCTOR WAS IN LUCK.

How He Got a Quarter of Beef He Was In Want Of.

A prosperous Pittsburg physician, who resides in an aristocratic part of the city, related an experience he met with about a year after he had graduated from college. He was practicing in a small village in Indiana county about 18 miles from any railroad. He had been recently married, and in the struggle to make ends meet the prospect at times became very discouraging. It was during one of these depressing periods in the middle of the winter, with snow a foot and a half deep covering the ground, that he was called to attend a farmer who lived some miles away. The stock of provisions in the house was exhausted, and it seemed certain that the resolution that had been made by the young couple not to ask any one for credit must be broken. When the call arrived, the doctor was preparing to go to the nearest store to ask the proprietor to give him "tick" so that he could get something for breakfast. Instead of going to the store he mounted his faithful mare Molly and started off through the drifts to visit his patient. When the doctor rose to leave, after attending to the patient, the old farmer said: "Doc, I ain't got no money, but if a quarter of beef'll do you any good I'll send it in when the roads get broke."

The young doctor's heart gave a bound. Concealing his exultation as best he could, he said: "What's the matter with me taking it right along? I was thinking of buying some beef, and this will come in handy."

The proposition was accepted, and the farmer's son helped put the quarter of beef across Molly's shoulders, and the homeward journey began. The mare was skittish, and the doctor had difficulty in keeping the beef from falling. Finally the mare shied at something, and away went the beef into a big snow-drift.

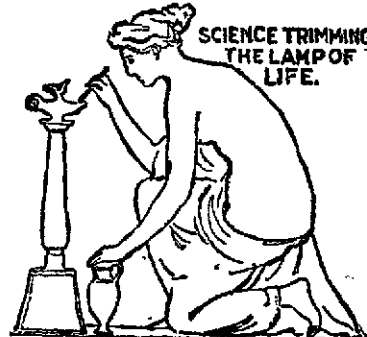

The doctor was a member of the Methodist church, and, according to his story, did not swear. He dismounted and endeavored to put the beef on the mare, but she wouldn't stand still, and after repeated attempts the task seemed a hopeless one. Thinking of the resolution, the young doctor set his teeth and tried again. This time he was successful. He felt like a conquering hero as he dumped the beef on the porch of his modest home about midnight. The faithful little wife was sure it was a dispensation of Providence, but the doctor, remembering his struggles at the snow-drift, reserved his opinion.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The Trans-Mississippi and International Congress is composed of delegates from every State and Territory West of the Mississippi river. The idea of this exposition originated in that Congress at its session at Omaha in 1895, and the project has become a National enterprise and the National Commission has been organized and is in active service, there being one commissioner for each of the several departments of the Government. Most of the Trans-Mississippi States are well along in the way of gathering exhibits from their respective States and many of them have made liberal appropriations, while others are preparing exhibits through private enterprise.

Vice-President H. B. Maxson of Reno, has made arrangements whereby he can get Nevada exhibits, shipped from any point in the State along the line of the C. P. R., to Omaha and return, and he requests all persons who wish the interests of the State advertised, to co-operate with the Exposition County Commissioner of his county, whose name is shown above, and prepare some product of his county and send it to the nearest point on the C. P. R. from which place it will be sent to Omaha and exhibit, and returned to the same point at the close of the exposition, free of expense to the exhibitor. Full information should accompany everything sent for exhibition. Before sending anything to the line of the railroad a full description should be given. The Exposition Commissioner of the county, who in turn will notify the Vice-President, who will notify him what action to take, otherwise there might be many applications. Apply to your County Representative for further information, and don't let this opportunity of advertising the resources of Nevada be lost.

Resolved, That the people of the Island of Cuba are and of right ought to be free and independent."

TIRED OF THE WAR BOARD OF STRATEGY.

Troops are being concentrated at Chattanooga, Tennessee; Tampa, Florida, and San Francisco, California. It is generally understood that the men at Chattanooga and Tampa, numbering over 30,000 will be sent to Cuba, and that the troops at San Francisco will be ordered to Manila.

It is not given to the public to know when the invasion of Cuba will take place, as it is not prudent to inform the Spaniards of the time of their departure, but it is not deemed necessary to keep the movements of the Manila expedition secret as there are no Spanish war ships on the Pacific.

It is again announced that the Administration has at last decided on a vigorous prosecution of the war. The President is said to have tired of the dilatatory tactics of the Board of Strategy, and he has instructed the Secretary of War to prepare for the invasion of Cuba, whether Sampson meets the Spanish fleet or not.

The Board of Strategy is said to be composed of wise heads who think they can direct Sampson's fleet, wherever it may be on the ocean, from their office in Washington, and conduct a campaign in Cuba better than the officers commanding the army of invasion.

The Board sent an expedition composed of a few companies of the First Regiment on the steamer Gussie to land stores in Cuba for the insurgents. The attempt was made to land this expedition close to a Spanish fortification on the Cuban coast and, of course, it resulted in failure. The commander of the expedition remained on board the Gussie beyond range of the Spanish guns and sent the brave men ashore, under his command, in small boats.

Four troops of Spanish Cavalry were patrolling the beach and the Americans had to retreat to their boats in a shower of bullets. The men say if they had remained ashore a few minutes longer every one of them would have been slaughtered, and if any ammunition had been landed it would have fallen into the hands of the enemy.

Who, but the Spaniards or their sympatizers desire to have the war with Spain conducted by such incompetents as comprise the Board of Strategy? If competent men have command of our fleets and our armies they, being on the ground know what to do much better than men of no more intelligence than those sitting in their offices at Washington. Had the gallant Dewey been under the direction of the Board of Strategy it is probable that he would today be maintaining a pacific blockade at Manila instead of having complete possession of the harbor and its fortifications.

THE GOLD BOLD FIGHT IN THE SENATE.

In a letter to a private citizen in Reno Senator Stewart states that there will be a desperate fight made to secure legislation by the Senate providing for an issue of bonds to buy gold to pay the expenses of the war with Spain, and should the money power succeed in its effort and secure an issue of bonds, a permanent debt and bank rule on the gold standard will follow in a form more grievous for the people than anything they know from hardships caused by the money power in the past.
The Senator says: "A good solution of the question is contained in the report of the Senate finance committee, and if the Senate can succeed in obtaining something substantially in accord with the report of the Senate committee it will be a favorable solution of the question for the people. But should the Senate fail to secure legislation that will embody the substance of the report of the committee, the war, should Uncle Sam take from Spain all her islands and bombard her seacoast cities, will distress the people of the United States ten-fold more than it will distress the people of Spain." He concludes by saying he will take a hand in the fight and do the very best he can for the people.

Upward of 10,000,000 flags have been

CONDENSED WAR NEWS.

The cruiser Charleston went to sea yesterday at noon on her way to Manila.

The United States steamship Monterey has been ordered to Manila to join Dewey's squadron.

It is now stated that fully two weeks will elapse before all of the reinforcements can start for the Philippines.

Private advices from Santiago de Cuba fail to bring any news regarding the arrival of the Spanish fleet at that port.

Eleven thousand men are now in camp at or near the Presidio, San Francisco, and 5,000 more are expected to arrive next week.

The increase of the regular army to 61,000 men is succeeding admirably and it is believed that a few days more will find the work completed.

Naval experts in England express the opinion that Admiral Cervera has made a fatal blunder in attempting to reach a south Cuban port.

Information received at the War Department at Washington states that riots are imminent at Havana. The scarcity of food is the cause.

The published information at Madrid regarding the Spanish fleet is contradictory. The Government declines to communicate anything on the subject.

One hundred and three thousand volunteers have been mustered into service so far and it is expected that within a week all of the 125,000 on the first call will have taken the oath.

France is indicating a complete change of despotism towards America and is now criticizing and deriding Spain for allowing herself to believe in a successful outcome to the trouble and compliments the position of America.

The army now gathered at Chicka-manga numbers 35,000 men and they are still arriving. The men have settled down to army work and practical drilling. The Regimental Chaplains have opened a war on the saloons and they will probably be closed.

Commodore Schley's squadron was seen anchored off Key West at an early hour yesterday morning having arrived the night before. Captain Sigbee, with the St. Paul, was already there and at 5 A. M. Admiral Sampson's fleet arrived and came to anchor. The naval officers seemed ignorant as to what the next move would be and the correspondents could obtain but little information. Preparations were going on in the fleet for some move, but what that move would be was not given out.
It is believed that the fleet of seven Spanish ships is moving westward and that a second section of the squadron is closely following. The St. Paul weighed anchor at sunset last evening and disappeared in a southeasterly direction, evidently on a scouting trip.

"Old Glory" Electrified.

Three hundred and seven incandescent lamps arranged in faithful representation of "Old Glory," is the patriotic decoration the Yuba Power Company have added to their already attractive headquarters at Marysville.
The emblem of liberty and independence depends from the porch above the sidewalk, and is to be a permanent feature of the company's illuminations.
At night the bright banner can be seen for several blocks up D street, says the Democrat. The vari-colored lamps are connected with separate circuits, each having an individual brush in order to produce the wave effects. The brush rests on a communicating cylinder and is revolved by a miniature electric motor.

The blue field of the flag is made up of forty-four blue lamps with a white star outlined on the end of each. For the white stripes one hundred and fourteen lamps are used and for the red stripes there are one hundred and twenty-nine. Twenty clear lamps represent the pole.

Take dinner at the Washoe lunch counter to-day, chicken and other delicacies for all.

Spain's Unkempt Soldiers.

A Havana correspondent says that, compared to our soldiers, either of the regular army or the National Guard, the gun carrier of Spain now in Havana is a lugubrious and ludicrous object.
His uniform, consisting of an ill-fitting blouse and trousers, of blue striped cotton drill, is best described as a suit of pajamas. Added to the blouse and trousers, a coarse, broad-brimmed straw hat and flimsy canvas shoes with hempen soles, and you have the full dress of the Spanish soldier. For a rusty, rickety Mauser in his hands he is hollow-chested, undersized, sunk-cheeked, bushy, bleary-eyed, and generally slouchy and unkempt.
In Havana he is omnipresent—10,000 strong. He loiter in the cafes, drinking sugar and water. He hangs about doorways and iron-bound windows, talking to senoritas. He loafs on the street corners, glaring at passing Americans. He swaggers along Obispo street, the Broadway of Havana, and he struts up and down the plaza as though monarch of all he surveys. When an officer passes he becomes as humble as Urth Heep. When an American passes he straightens up and transforms his bearing into that of a latter-day Caesar.

William II's Tenth Tailman.

The house of Hohenzollern possesses a family talisman. Since the time of the Elector John Cleero, who flourished toward the end of the fifteenth century, each ruler has, when possible, before dissolution, handed to his successor a sealed packet. This contains a ring in which is set a black stone said to have been dropped by a huge toad on the coverlet of a princess of the family just as she had given birth to a son. Frederick the Great found the ring in an envelope, which also inclosed a memorandum written by Frederick I, stating its value and its mode of transmission. Schneider, the librarian of William I, declares that he saw the packet handed by Gelling, the treasurer, to his royal master on accession, and further asserts that he read his account of the talisman to the emperor, who fully confirmed it.—St.
James Gazette.

Heat and Fuel Savers.

How long are you going to "get along" with that old cookstove that burns more fuel than a furnace and heats the outdoors more than it does the oven?

A very little money will buy one of our cookstoves—you'll save the price in fuel in one season. It will keep the heat where it ought to be, and cook your food as it ought to be cooked.
Come in and examine them.

THAT "CONDENSED" WAR NEWS.

The "Gazette's" Sixteen Falsehoods to One Truthful Statement.

The JOURNAL is running an interesting column of "Condensed War News" compiled from the "Gazette's" dispatches of the previous evening.

Readers of the Gazette have read this squib many times before. It is said that it is kept standing in the Gazette office so as to be used when nothing better offers as an item. In fact, it helps out now and then like an old patent medicine advertisement, of which the Gazette has a number. The squib, however, as a matter of fact is a lie, for the JOURNAL clipped its "condensed war news" out of the Carson News badly, the matter sitting, our purpose better and being much better edited than that in the Gazette and fully as late.

Not a single line, let alone a paragraph was taken from the bragging Gazette. The JOURNAL does not pretend to take "the full Associated Press dispatches" and publish a part of them as the Gazette does. Even if the JOURNAL could afford to pay for the service, the forces of both offices combined could not set the news up in a day, so when the Gazette slurs the JOURNAL in regard to telegraph news, it states the number 2, when it claims to run the full report. Any one can see this by comparing the general telegraph news as published in the Gazette with that published in any of the leading San Francisco papers and by comparison they will further find that much of the news in the Gazette is published in these same papers in their morning issue which arrives here in the evening and instead of the Gazette being sixteen to twenty-four hours earlier, its news is only about four hours ahead and in brief detail. This is proven by the rash of people for their papers every evening at Rosenthal & Aramankov's, hence the claim is, mildly expressed, a misrepresentation.

The next lie in last night's Gazette is the reference made to the editorial in the JOURNAL. That editorial was not written by the senior editor of this paper, but was procured in the same way that most of the Gazette's editorials are written, viz, by clipping it out of an Eastern paper and switching the paragraphs around to give an appearance of originality.

The JOURNAL as a rule when referring to the Gazette, speaks of it in a pleasant way and has at various times commended its enterprise in trying as far as possible to give the latest news, but on the other hand the Gazette takes every opportunity to slur and belittle a business competitor and in fact tear a neighbor down to build itself up. This is its policy and it may in a measure be pardoned, for it has become so swelled with its own importance that as a state paper remarked not long since, it will have to be hooped to keep it from bursting.

NEVADA VOLUNTEER TROOP.

Some others have applied for enrollment but the troop is about complete. Many of the men left their homes in a hurry and brought no change of clothing. TO-DAY'S RACE.

The Olympics Versus the Reno Wheelmen.

To-day will mark one of the greatest wheeling events ever held in the West and it is anticipated that at least 4,000 people made up of visitors from neighboring towns and home people will witness the event. The Olympic team from San Francisco will arrive on this morning's east-bound and will be met by a committee of Reno Wheelmen and the Club's band and escorted to the Riverside Hotel, where breakfast will be served.

The great 50-mile relay race will be called promptly at 1:30 P. M. and both teams will strive to carry off the laurels as well as the trophy presented by the citizens of Reno. There is no question but what some coast records will be broken and an effort will be made to bring the time away down on the five-mile relays and the final result.

Ed Stanley, the crack-a-jack long distance rider of the coast, will ride with his home club, the Reno Wheelmen, and will strive to break his past records. The track has been worked and is all that can be wished and it is believed will be several seconds faster than at the relays of last year for it is in much better condition.

A number of enthusiasts from San Francisco will accompany the Olympics and will give them encouragement and support, while all Nevada will hurray for the Wheelmen. The admission at the gate will be 25 cents and the conveyances will be directly under the control of the Wheelmen and only 25 cents for the round trip will be charged to the track.

Secure good health, and you will surely have good looks. "Electric Bitters" is a good Alternative and tonic. Acts directly on the stomach, liver and kidneys, purifies the blood, cures pimples, blotches and boils and gives a good complexion. Every bottle guaranteed. Sold at S. J. Hodkinson's Drug Store. 50 cents per bottle.

Queerest Town in England.

The most curious town in England is Northwich. There is not a straight street nor, in fact, a straight house in the place. Every part of it has the appearance of having suffered from the visitation of an earthquake. Northwich is the center of the salt industry in Cheshire, England. On nearly all sides of the town are big salt works, with their engines pumping hundreds of thousands of gallons of brine every week. At a depth of some 200 or 300 feet are immense subterranean lakes of brine, and as the contents of these are pumped and pumped away the upper crust of earth is correspondingly weakened and the result is an occasional subsidence. These subsidences have a "pulling" effect on the nearest buildings, and they are drawn all ways, and give the town an extremely dissipated appearance.

DEVOURS LIKE FIRE.

THE WONDERFUL EFFECTS PRODUCED BY FLUORINE.

The Diamond Only Able to Absolutely Resist This Powerful Solvent—Researches into the Nature of a Hitherto Poorly Known Chemical Element.

The alchemists of the middle ages believed that somewhere in the universe was to be found a universal solvent which would dissolve the most refractory substances as readily as water dissolves sugar. They named their solvent liquor alkabest, and what time they could spare from the search after the elixir of life and the philosopher's stone was spent in the endeavor to obtain it. Science has yet to prove, by the way, that there was not more method in the madness of the alchemists than is generally supposed, for in the remarkable substance fluorine chemists possess material that approximates very closely to a universal solvent. Its chemical energy is so fierce that, except gold and platinum, nothing can resist it, and even gold and platinum succumb to fluorine in time. The mere contact of most substances with fluorine is sufficient to cause not mere solution, but light, flame and fierce detonations. Dull, inert flint takes fire when exposed to fluorine vapor and becomes a brilliant incandescent mass. Lampblack bursts into flame, while charcoal burns with bright scintillations. Only the diamond is able to resist this powerful solvent, to which it does not succumb even at high temperature. The similar element silicon, which can be obtained in a crystalline form closely resembling the diamond, gives a magnificent display in the presence of fluorine, the crystals becoming white hot and throwing showers of fiery spangles in all directions. The heat is so intense that the crystals melt, showing that their temperature has reached 1,800 degrees C.

Phosphorus combines fiercely with fluorine. Prussian blue, on account of the cyanogen it contains, burns with a beautiful pink flame; while from a crystal of iodine placed in fluorine vapor a heavy liquid distills with a pale flame. This liquid—an iodide of fluorine—etches glass, and if thrown into water hisses like hot iron. The last named metal becomes white hot when exposed to fluorine; even iron rust behaves in a similar manner. Nearly all metals are raised to vivid incandescence in a current of the gas, many appearing very beautiful, especially aluminum and zinc. If the latter be slightly warmed, it bursts into a white flame too dazzling to gaze at or describe.

Although it has been known in various states of combination for many years, having been first discovered by Schwabach of Nuremberg, in 1670, and rediscovered by Scheele in 1771, fluorine was not obtained as fluorine in the free state until about six years ago, when the French chemist Moissan succeeded in isolating it by employing a current of electricity from 26 or 28 Bunsen batteries. The current was passed through the compound of fluorine and hydrogen known as hydrofluoric acid, which is similar to hydrochloric acid. To improve the conductivity of the hydrofluoric acid it was necessary to dissolve another fluorine compound in the liquid. As will readily be imagined, it is not so difficult to obtain free fluorine as to keep it when obtained. Every part of the apparatus used by M. Moissan was made of platinum, with screw joints and washers of lead, which swell on contact with fluorine, all the stoppers being of fluor spar. Fluorine has a powerful affinity for silicon, one of the principal constituents of glass, so that it was impossible to use glass vessels or tubes to contain the gas.

As regards the chemical nature of fluorine, it is a gas at ordinary temperatures and is the lightest member of the series of elements containing chlorine, bromine and iodine. The attraction of fluorine for hydrogen exceeds that of chlorine and is so great that if a slow current of fluorine gas be passed into a tube of fluor spar containing a drop of water a dark fog is produced, which changes presently to a blue vapor consisting of ozone—the condensed form of oxygen. The last named substance appears to be one of the few materials which has no affinity for fluorine. Nothing is observed to take place between them even when they are heated up to 1,000 degrees F.

So far all experiments had been conducted with fluorine gas, which, at the time it was isolated, resisted all attempts to reduce it to the liquid state. Six years ago, however, there was no laboratory—such as that at the Royal Institution—having powerful machinery for producing liquid air or liquid oxygen at the command of the investigator. In fact, liquid air itself was practically unknown. By the aid of this weapon Professors Dewar and Moissan have succeeded in liquefying fluorine. At the extremely low temperature of liquid oxygen it was found that fluorine did not attack glass, and it was possible to use glass vessels to hold the newly liquefied element.—C. F. Townsend to Knowledge.

His Pointer.

An eminent judge, being asked how he could turn with such facility from one case to another, replied:

"I learned that from what I saw at a colored baptism when I was a boy. The weather was very cold, so that to immerse it was necessary to cut away the ice. When one of the female candidates was dipped back in the water, the cold made her squirm so that she slipped from the minister's hands and went down the stream under the ice. Looking up with perfect calmness at the throng on the bank, the minister said: "Brethren, this sister hath departed. Hand me down another."—Brooklyn Citizen.

All He Got From the Suit.

An author now both rich and famous tells how he earned his first sixpence. His father had been for 27 years engaged in a suit in chancery and had just gained his cause. The expenses of the suit, however, had swallowed up the entire estate, the residue being merely 3s. 6d. My father, he relates, ranged the 7 sixpences on our breakfast table. "My boy," said he, "see what comes of going to law in Great Britain. Your mother has told you that I have won my suit in chancery?"

"Yes, father."

"Well, then, look! That is all I get of it," and he pointed grimly at the sixpences. I opened wide my eyes.

"All you get of the whole suit?" I echoed, with a puzzled air, convinced that a suit in chancery was composed, as other suits are, of a coat, waistcoat and trousers.

"Why, father, those are only the buttons!"

It was this deplorable joke that earned me my first sixpence, for my father, laughing, tossed me one, and I rushed off like a dog pelted with a bone.

Goodson!—Why will you carry on as you do? Why aren't you more careful about the preservation of your reputation?

Littlemind—Don't want to preserve it. If I could only get rid of it altogether, I'd be a mighty sight better off than I am.—Boston Transcript.
